picturesque at every angle

The stylish Round Haus gives you license to wander. Its edgy design is a result of its curves. Both its living room and bedroom offer 180-degree window views, placing guests right in the center of the forest. Head to its rooftop deck for stargazing. Up there, you might also spot deer, elk or a bald eagle taking flight. Closer to earth, you can get acquainted with small animals as they scurry about foraging for food.

experiences become intimate with a sense of adventure.

equestrian experiences

Galloping through a meadow over sagebrush and grasses is perhaps the most quintessentially Montana activity you can do. At the green o, you'll also wind along the edge of the Blackfoot River, amble through a forest of towering pines and crest Rocky Mountain foothills. But don't stop there. the green o is home to one of the most impressive and expansive equestrian programs in North America, which means the variety of equine activities seems to go on and on forever.

fly-fishing

It's a quiet, meditative sport that puts you in close touch with the river and its meandering rhythms. Whether you're trying fly-fishing for the first time or ready to take your skills to the next level, the green o is the ideal place to learn, with epic stretches of the world-renowned Blackfoot River right here on property, plus several others within a short drive. On a boat perfectly suited for two, you'll find brown, cutthroat and rainbow trout, as well as other native species.

If you feel like you're just spinning your wheels, you may actually be having the time of your life at the green o. Zooming through mud puddles, plowing over boulders and zipping quietly through the forest are some of our favorite Montana adventures. Ride up into the foothills to see the glorious vistas. Take a joyride through Montana's best preserved ghost town. The trails are yours to enjoy, whether it's just you and your significant other or a big group of friends.

shooting sports

Aim for a great day together. At the green o, you can use a bow and arrow to shoot at 3D targets that look just like local Montana animals or challenge everyone in your group to see who prevails on our scenic 10-station sporting clays installation. Sharpshooters can also hone their skills at our Old West .22 Rifle Range. Or see if you can survive in a high-octane game of paintball. We like to have fun in Montana, and sometimes that means a little target practice.

climbing pursuits

Things could get rocky with you and your friends, but only in the best possible way. With 37,000 acres of pristine Montana wilderness to explore, you'll find adventures that challenge your body and mind. Try the Sky Line™ Aerial Adventure Park, a high-ropes course that'll push the boundaries of your comfort zone. Or, for a particularly spine-tingling experience, go rappelling from the very spot where Meriwether Lewis once stood, admiring the view. Looking down is part of the fun.

river and lake activities

Go ahead and get your feet wet. The Island Lodge at Salmon Lake offers everything from jet skiing, kayaking, sailing and swimming to wakeboarding, waterskiing and sunset pontoon boat tours. For tubing, a water trampoline, stand up paddleboards and sea kayaks, there's also the Lake House at Seeley Lake. Not to be outdone, the nearby rivers pour on adventures like canoeing and rafting. There's more water in Montana than you think. And it's more inviting than you can imagine.

adventures in flight

There's one bucket-list item that soars above the rest: seeing Montana from way up high. The air is so clean and clear you can see for a hundred miles, from the Swan Range and the Bob Marshall Wilderness to the Garnet Mountains and beyond. You might spy dozens of elk scamper across the meadow. Or watch as a golden eagle does a flyby. They're spectacular sights, whether you're riding in the basket of a hot air balloon or gazing down from a private helicopter tour.

winter trail adventures

Imagine shrieking with glee at top speed as you zoom across the frozen tundra. With three types of snowmobile tours, the green o becomes a special paradise for thrill-seekers. Fat tire electric bike tours are equally exhilarating, with quiet engines that let you enjoy the sights and sounds of the pristine, white Montana landscape. Or try getting pulled behind a team of huskies. To slow down, the green o offers snowshoeing, a romantic way to take a long walk on a quiet winter morning, alone with the trees.

fresh powder activities

There's no need to choose between an exhilarating ski trip and a rejuvenating winter getaway. Only 45 minutes away lies Montana's premier downhill skiing and snowboarding resort, Snowbowl, featuring 2,600 vertical feet of terrain. Of course, just outside your door are countless unparalleled (yet oh-so-parallel) trails for cross-country skiing. Your guide will lead the way as you glide under a canopy of conifers freshly dusted in white. Or, to really get your heart pounding, give skijoring a try. You can also pay a visit to the all-new Blast Mountain Tubing and Ice Skating Park just a few miles down the road, with three thrill-packed tubing runs to choose from.

spa, yoga and fitness

At the center of the green o's spa and fitness program lies a collection of tents, stitched together by an ambling boardwalk. And in this calming setting, you'll discover a menu of services ranging from couple's massages to purifying mineral mud wraps. You'll also have the option to develop posture, breathing, balance and flexibility with Buti, Hatha or Vinyasa yoga or build your strength, stability and stamina with GlideBarre classes. If that's not your thing, you can get inspired while achieving your personal best in the Huff-and-Puff Fitness Center, equipped with the latest machines. However you define a better self, we'll help you achieve your goals.

social haus

theater for the hungry

dynamic and innovative cuisine

Dining at the green o is a singular culinary experience. The Social Haus restaurant, bar and lounge—exclusive to green o guests—is just a short walk from each Haus. Take in the sights and smells as you watch chefs prepare nourishing meals for breakfast, lunch and dinner. Dine on creative and healthy dishes made with a rich variety of seasonal ingredients. Gather and enjoy craft cocktails and fine wines—inside, yet in the middle of the forest.

live-fire cooking

Taking full advantage of our Western heritage, the green o showcases an open kitchen centered on live-fire cooking. Dramatic flames kiss ranch-raised meats and grill them to juicy, fall-off-the-bone perfection. Expect tangy sauces and lip-smacking spice rubs. This is so much more than your typical barbecue; it's theater for the hungry, sustenance for the soul.

executive chef brandon cunningham

"I like an approach of small, thoughtful plates curated almost to the person."

Not surprisingly, the green o's executive chef was well on his way to stardom in foodie-centric Portland, Oregon, when he was convinced to bring his skills to Montana. He credits his tenures with live-fire legend Chef Jason French at Ned Ludd, pasta guru Chef Matt Sigler at Renata and El Bulli veteran Chef Sunny Jin at The Resort at Paws Up for his diverse culinary background. At the green o, Cunningham sees a "juxtaposition of elegant presentations with primitive live-fire cooking."

our story

it's a Montana tale.

how it began

named for an early rancher

On land that was a patchwork of homesteads, fields and woods, a scion by the name of Paul Greenough established a ranch here in about 1915. His father was a wealthy businessman in the mining and timber industries, but Greenough wanted to be a rancher.

After acquiring the original 3,800 acres, he stocked herds of sheep, cattle and horses. A man with a well-known sense of humor, Greenough decided to brand his sheep by painting them with a big green "O." Years later, the town of Greenough was named in his honor.

In 1997, the current owners purchased the land and expanded the property to a total of 37,000 deeded and leased acres. It's now a working cattle and bison ranch, as well as the home of two resorts, The Resort at Paws Up and the green o.

an experience for the taking

Sharing such an expansive swath of land with Paws Up means that guests at the green o enjoy the very best of both worlds: seclusion and access. With more than 100 miles of trails and a 10-mile stretch of a legendary river, visitors can choose from 50+ engaging outdoor adventures, more than any other resort in North America. There's also the Island Lodge at Salmon Lake, available for partial and full-day excursions.

What's more, the green o taps into a world of exciting year-round events: food and wine weekends that attract James Beard Award-winning talent, intimate live musical performances, workshops that let you explore new passions and a whole series of demonstrations with world-renowned cookbook authors. Guests will also discover Paws Up's dining options and its friendly bar and restaurants located just beyond the green o's gates.

your guide, at a glance

countless activities and adventures the green o's 37,000-acre property, with more than 100 miles of trails and a 10-mile stretch of the Blackfoot River, along with 1.5 million acres of the nearby Bob Marshall Wilderness Area combine to make this part of Montana the ultimate outdoor playground. Saddle up for a definitive horseback riding adventure, take your best shot on a world-class sporting clays course, experience Montana fly-fishing with an expert guide or kick up some dust on an ATV tour. Plus, there's boating, hiking, kayaking, mountain biking, rafting, rappelling and more.

experiential dining

At the center of the green o is a freestanding private restaurant (the Social Haus), including a lounge, a dining space, an open kitchen and panoramic views of the unspoiled forest. With menus that change frequently, sometimes daily, the green o chefs serve small, shareable plates with nourishing entrees and artful desserts. Meals are focused around creative and healthy ingredients and include a rich variety of seasonal favorites.

intimate events

the green o offers an assortment of intimate events exclusive to the property throughout the year catering to a variety of interests from food and wine to music and art. An ever-changing calendar can be found at thegreeno.com.

thoughtful sustainability

the green o was designed to help guests celebrate the scenic beauty and flora and fauna of the Montana timberland. To save the natural beauty of the surrounding forest, planners identified sites that would accommodate the construction of each Haus without cutting down trees or disturbing the land. Other sustainability initiatives include construction methods that raised each Tree Haus off the natural forest floor, living roofs on Green Haus buildings, rooftop decks to showcase the surrounding forest canopy, a restaurant with ranch-to-table dining and living roof, a limit on gas vehicles allowed on property, lighted walking trails, mountain bikes provided upon request for guests and special eco-friendly lighting systems.

room rates

A stay at the green o is all-inclusive. Guests enjoy three meals per day for two adults plus a $300 Stay and Play credit per couple per night available to be applied to activities, excursions or spa services. There are snacks and other amenities available in each Haus, as well. A 20% resort fee per night covers lodging services, airport transfers, use of a Lexus luxury SUV, meal plan gratuities and staff gratuities, allowing guests wallet-free convenience. There's also an 8% state lodging tax added to the nightly room rate.

getting around

Transportation to and from Missoula International Airport is complimentary, and transportation around the green o property is easy. Guests have access to mountain bikes, and wandering is encouraged. For spur-of-the-moment access to The Resort at Paws Up, a Lexus NX is always available. Guests simply park in the nearby lot and either take a leisurely walk to their Haus or hitch a ride with Guest Services on an electric cart. It's a serene setting, carefully preserved.

wi-fi

Cell service is available throughout the entire Paws Up Ranch, and all green o Haus accommodations feature complimentary Wi-Fi. Guests are welcome to log on anytime, but they may not choose to.

For those ready to explore this more intimate side of Montana, reservations can be made by calling 877-251-2841.
